

Net neutrality is essential for democracy in the 21st century. A two-tier internet system will benefit already-powerful businesses and individuals while hurting small businesses and the general public. The internet is the dominant medium for communication and should be equally available for all people.

The push to end net neutrality is undemocratic and absolutely detrimental to our society. The FCC should not cater to big business at the expense of the American people.

Sincerely,

Claire Nicolay
1607 W. Thome
Chicago, IL 60660